

Pre-sell shipments, and why you will not see them

Some shipments are sold before they arrive. Those pairs are deliberately kept out of your listing worklist — if you listed one, we would be offering a pair that already belongs to somebody else’s order. Your job starts later: the pairs that were not sold come to you on Rescale Stock to be priced and listed like anything else.

THE ONE-LINE VERSION

You do nothing differently. Pre-sell pairs simply never reach you, and the leftovers arrive on Rescale Stock, which you already work every day.

What you will notice

Two things, and both are correct behaviour.

WHAT YOU SEE	WHY
A shipment arrived, but nothing is on New Inventory	It was a pre-sell shipment. The pairs are held until the warehouse says which orders they cover. Nothing is broken and nothing is lost.
Only some of a shipment reaches you	Normal. The warehouse released the pairs that were not spoken for. The rest are already sold and are not ours to list.
The listing badges do not count them	Deliberate. A pre-sell pair is not listing work, so it must not sit in your backlog making it look larger than it is.

PLEASE DO NOT CHASE THESE AS MISSING STOCK

A pre-sell shipment that has not been released yet is not a bug, and it is not a receiving mistake. If a shipment seems to be taking a long time, ask the warehouse whether it is still on their Pre-sell page — do not raise a rescale request for it.

1 The released pairs arrive on Rescale Stock

When the warehouse presses Send for rescale, the pairs that were not sold land on your Rescale Stock worklist, dated the day they were released.

Nine pairs released from one pre-sell shipment, arriving as two lines to price and list.

NOTHING NEW TO LEARN

This is the same worklist you already use for stock the warehouse has rescanned. There is no separate pre-sell screen for you, and there is no new button.

2 Price them and list them, as usual

1. Set the price the way you normally do — Refresh prices pulls the global indicator for the range.
2. List to II and the stores as the row requires.
3. Press ✓ Restocked. The pair drops off the worklist and behaves as ordinary inventory from then on.

THESE ARE NOT NEW ARRIVALS

They landed days ago and have been sitting on a shelf while the warehouse worked out what was sold. Price them against today's market, not the date on the shipment.

Questions you may be asked

Short answers you can give without checking with anyone.

QUESTION	ANSWER
Can I see which pairs are pre-sold?	Not on your screens, and you do not need to. If you must know, ask the warehouse — the shipment carries a Pre-sell chip on their Batches and Inventory pages.
Can I list a pre-sold pair if a store is short?	No. It is already somebody's. The system will not show it to you, and it must not be worked around.
A pre-sold pair came back — the buyer cancelled.	The warehouse hands it back on their Pre-sell page and it comes to you on Rescale Stock like the rest. Nothing for you to do until it appears.
Do these count towards my listing backlog?	Only once released. Until then they are invisible to every PH count, on purpose.

Where a pre-sell pair sits in its life

STAGE	WHO	VISIBLE TO PH?
Received, ticked pre-sell	Warehouse	No — held out of New Inventory
Pre-sold — an order covers it	Warehouse	No — never listed
Released for listing	Warehouse	Yes — appears on Rescale Stock
Priced & listed, ticked Restocked	PH team	Yes — ordinary inventory
